

Side Notes:

When I wrote this song it was the end of 2002 and when I started to play it I was thinking of all of the things I had accomplished during the year. (Finishing my degree at Weber State University was a major highlight!) When you play this song, think of all the blessings you've received and be grateful for what you have. You might even want to thank your mom or piano teacher for making you practice! (Or you can just wait until you turn 20 and realize everyone really was right when they told you you'd be glad you learned to play piano!)
