Side Notes: This has always been one of my favorite primary songs. In researching copyright permission for this tune, I learned Mirla Greenwood Thayne wrote a third verse to the song that very few people have ever seen. It is: "I wonder when He comes again, Will all the nations bring, Their little children to His arms, To hear the angels sing? And as they hear His loving voice, And see His outstretched hand, Will children of the world rejoice, To finally understand: That only as we do His will, Can happiness increase, That love, alone, can make this world, A haven of His peace."

The scriptures say that we all need to become as little children. What I love about this song is how it focuses so much on how children will react during the second coming of Christ.
