Side Notes: I wrote this tune in a single afternoon, on a spring day while the windows were open, and I could hear the birds singing. As I kept playing the higher notes of the song, one bird seemed to answer back, nearly in sync with the music. I tried to capture the bird singing back and forth with me on the piano, but in the end my camera and video didn't do it justice. I'll always remember this song as the time when the birds were singing right along with me at the piano.

Birdsong

JASON TONIOLI

©2021 Tonioli Music