

Side Notes: One of my favorite albums to listen to when I was growing up was "Songs From a Secret Garden" which was produced by Norwegian composer Rolf Løvland. I feel like he is one of the top five composers who have influenced my music over the years. I love the simplicity of his melodies and how he was able to bring so much emotion out in a song. This song is a tribute to the influence his music has had on my development as an artist and impact his songs have made to the world. I hope that in some small way my music will influence future composers in a positive way and help them discover the music that accompanies our lives.
