

Side Notes: When I started writing this, the melody felt like it needed to have a soprano voice or cello playing along with the piano singing the melody. This was the original version of the song I wrote as a piano solo. It might be something that I record in the future with another instrument doing the melody, but as you play the piano solo version of this tune, be sure to bring out the melody, just like you would be singing it, and hold the notes like vocalists would be doing if they were singing it and taking breaths along the way.
