14.

Side Notes: This Christmas Hymn was first published in 1858 by Edward Caswall. The tune was composed by John Goss and has been featured in abbreviated forms in many hymnbooks. It is one of the most beautiful, simple melodies I've found. As I was arranging this song as a piano solo, it felt like it needed an extra verse at the end. However, I couldn't find an extra verse that fit. So, I decided to make a new verse to wrap up the song. I didn't really write this arrangement to be sung as a solo or with a choir, but if there were a 5th verse, I would have people sing: "Shares His light and love with all, Leads us by the hand when called, With humility and love, Guides us to our home above!"

I included lyrics more as a guide for the piano player to add meaning to the song as it is played. I hope it helps bring the spirit to the song and makes it one that you really enjoy sharing with others!
