Side Notes: This tune was first published in 1784 and has been used as a hymn, a lullaby and a Christmas song. My favorite version of this tune was done for a music project for a medieval themed amusement park called Evermore. My friends from Ireland who have been the voices with Celtic Woman and Riverdance sang this song for that project and their Irish accent mixed with their harmony was amazing. It is incredible to see what talented people can do with simple melodies and songs. I hope this Welch carol or lullaby (if you are playing this when it isn't the Christmas season) is one that you will enjoy any time.

All Through the Night
